WHAT IS WORDPLAY?

- A book festival that connects people through the power of story
- A place for families with activities, events, and authors for kids and teens
- A creative way to engage readers & writers
- A celebration of literacy
- A party for books including food trucks, beer tents, boisterous conversations, quiet reading nooks, and books, books, books.

6 Stages
100 Authors
2 Days

WORDPLAY AUTHORS

- 100 authors with recently published books in all genres
- 30% Minnesota writers
- Including cookbooks, fiction, YA, nonfiction, YA, children's, poetry, graphic novels, memoir, genre (sci-fi, romance, mystery etc.), and more
- Household names & emerging writers
- The year in publishing (all authors will have a book out in the past 18 months)
- Full lineup announced in January

WHY WORDPLAY?

- This region is consistently ranked nationally as one of the most literate
- There is a hungry audience here for literary events, yet we lack a large-scale celebration like other communities in the country.
- It's an economic driver: Writers are the third largest creative profession in Minnesota and Minnesota has the highest concentration of publishing professionals in the entire country.

Anticipated Attendance 10,000

READERS ARE EVERYWHERE

73% of US adults have read a book in the past year.

In a divided world, this is a diverse and dedicated audience united by the power of story.

READING UNITES

By age, by race, by gender, by income, by geography, reading is as near a universal act as you can find (PEW Study, 2016).
